Ludwigsburg University of Education is seeking applicants to fill the following position:

Tenure-Track-Professorship for Inclusion pedagogy with a focus on emotional and social development (W1 with Tenure Track W3)

initially limited duration according to § 51 Abs. 7 LHG BW

Reference Number: 20-63

Task: Teaching (4 SWS; after positive interim evaluation 6 SWS) and research in the pedagogy of fostering and support with a special focus on social and emotional development in the teacher training courses (BA/MA); mentoring in school internships; involvement in examinations and academic self-administration. Participation in interdisciplinary and cross-curricular courses is appreciated; experience in successful third-party funding is expected.

Requirements: University degree (State Examination or Master’s degree) in Special Needs Education or equivalent teacher training degree; PhD; usually at least three years of school practice and/or multi-year practice in special education fields of work with children/youth with a focus on emotional and social development; teaching experience in HEI is desirable.

The tenure track professorship is offered within the framework of Germany’s Joint Federal State Funding Programme for Junior Academics. This programme particularly addresses researchers in an early phase of their post-doc career. The recruitment requirements and conditions of § 51 LHG Baden-Württemberg apply. The recruitment process is additionally subject to the requirements for appointing junior professors as stated in Section 51 of the Baden-Wuerttemberg State Higher Education Act (LHG). The recruitment in accordance with § 51(7) LHG shall be temporary as civil servant or employee. In the case of positive (end) evaluation, the appointment to a full W3 professorship without a new call for proposals takes place in an appropriately simplified appeal procedure according to § 48 (1) LHG. Concerning practical experience in school teaching § 47 (3-1) LHG applies. Evaluation process is based on the quality assurance criteria for tenure track professorships at Ludwigsburg University of Education. The subject-specific criteria referred to in “Tasks” are relevant for intermediate and end evaluation.

Disabled applicants with adequate qualification will be preferentially considered.
